

The statistical mechanics approach to socio-economic sciences.

A case study

Pierluigi Contucci
Department of Mathematics, University of Bologna

Abstract

The talk will review classical socio-economic methods like the Mc Fadden Discrete Choice Theory on a statistical mechanics perspective. Their extension to the case with interaction, due to Brock and Durlauf, will be introduced and a case study discussed.